R.C. Salane dude showed up to serve her. She's never even met him in person and he knew where she lived and showed up personally.

Dude should have been put 6ft under in the desert somewhere with some pepper on top already.

Kcg Gib I only know you through Michele but I read the article last night... insane. I'd say this guy should be in a mental institution but he's past that, he needs to be deleted.

Sorry you're going through this.

Just seeing this thread. Was at the Palm Springs International ShortFest this weekend where I overheard people talking about an upcoming documentary brewing at Netflix. Apparently the two girls behind the media circus around this guy have been in talks with them.

Are We Dating The Same Guy?, also shortened as AWDTSG<sup>[1]</sup> is a series of over 200<sup>[1]</sup> individual Facebook groups<sup>[1]</sup> where women share the dating profiles of men they matched with on dating networks to seek the opinion other women who may have dated that same man in the past.<sup>[2]</sup> The first group was by  Sanchez and involved women living in the NYC environs.<sup>[3][4]</sup> The groups have over 3.5 million members as of January 2024.<sup>[1]</sup> It is done by taking screenshots of a man's dating profile and posting it onto her city's designated Facebook group, asking "any tea?". Other users in the group will then share information about the man and share warnings.<sup>[5][6]</sup> The groups are moderated by volunteers,<sup>[6]</sup> and have been described as a feminist group.<sup>[7]</sup>

The groups have rules saying that personal information such as addresses must not be included in the Facebook posts. Users attempting to join the group are also examined to prevent postage of fake profiles.<sup>[6]</sup> The group is mainly for straight women.<sup>[1]</sup>

Hey everyone! 🍀 does anyone have free time to volunteer to help with vetting new member profiles? We've had a huge influx of members in a lot of our groups the past few weeks, and we could really use the help!

Vetting each profile to make sure it's a real woman is essential to keeping the groups safe, but it takes a lot of time so it requires many volunteers. So if you have the time to help with a group, please fill out this very quick form at the link below, and comment to See more had sold his mobile payment provider Zong to PayPal for $240 million in 2011, and who had been introduced to Bitcoin in 2009, was certainly no spring chicken to the rapidly evolving FinTech and digital payments space. Within nine months of Zong's acquisition by PayPal, Marcus was named PayPal's president in April 2012. Then, in June 2014, Marcus was recruited by Facebook's Mark Zuckerberg to run their Messenger app. By the time the idea that would become Libra began to germinate during his 2017 vacation in the Dominican Republic, the social network's messenger app boasted over 1.3 billion active users.

James G. Marcus - The New York Times Source

Prior to his experience with PayPal and Facebook, Marcus had founded GTN Telecom, noted as being the "first to break Switzerland's telecommunications monopoly" in 1996. GTN Telecom was backed by the UK's 3i, a venture capital firm founded in 1945 by the Bank of England and "a syndicate of British banks," and was later sold in 2000 to WorldCom's World Access just two years before WorldCom would file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy after excessive accounting fraud. Marcus went on to found Echovox, a "mobile monetization company focused on monetizing web and traditional media audiences" via "transaction-enabled mobile services," shortly after the October 2000 sale

Bank of England and "a syndicate of British banks," and was later sold in 2000 to WorldCom's World Access just two years before WorldCom would file for Chapter 11 bankruptcy after excessive accounting fraud. Marcus went on to found Echovox, a "mobile monetization company focused on monetizing web and traditional media audiences" via "transaction-enabled mobile services," shortly after the October 2000 sale of GTN. Zong was later spun off from Echovox. Bertrand Perez and Kurt Hemecker, two executives at Zong, would become part of the founding team at Libra alongside Marcus.

"In late 2009 when I first stumbled upon Bitcoin and read the white paper, I tried to play with it, but it was so cumbersome even for a geek like me. I just couldn't get it. So I kind of put it aside, brushed it aside, and then came back to it in 2012 when a good friend of mine who's often referred to as a Patient Zero in Silicon Valley for Bitcoin, [Xapo's] Wences Casares, basically started telling me more about it and telling me 'you have to actually spend time and understand this thing.' And so I did. And then I just couldn't stop thinking about it. I just couldn't stop thinking about this idea that you could actually be your own self-sovereign for digital value and you could move it around without any intermediary in between...

Then in 2013 at PayPal, that's after Zong got acquired by PayPal and I was running it, I remember that Argentina asked us to actually stop the flow of money going out of the country from PayPal accounts located in Argentina. And I remember us having to comply because we were regulated entity, and seeing the price of Bitcoin rise the same day. And it was really clear that a lot of Argentines at the time were actually moving their funds into Bitcoin so that they would have control over their hard-

The Chain Of Command: How Facebook's Libra, Bank Regulators, and PayPal Built A New World Currency

Two companies closely tied to Peter Thiel – PayPal and Facebook – have embarked on apparently unsuccessful efforts to create a “new world currency.” Yet, upon further examination, those efforts have actually been wildly successful and many recent events of significant in finance – including but not limited to the 2023 banking crisis – have arguably been orchestrated to facilitate the vision of Thiel and his early allies and the creation of a new paradigm for currency, one where privately issued money meets surveillance.

hemorrhaged away enough users that it now threatens many of the privileges the legacy system once enjoyed, mainly the available profits found by selling their data and leveraging their deposits.

The understanding that social networks are communication platforms, and that money itself is just a ledger upholding the communicative expression between users, led the social media giant Facebook to experiment with adding financial instruments to their vastly popular Messenger app. While Bitcoin and alternatives had been around for nearly a decade before Facebook's Libra was proposed, this was “the shot heard ‘round the world” for central bankers and regulators to sit up straight and take a novel payments system proposed by the world's largest social network seriously.

Yet, as Facebook soon found out, if you come at the king, you best not miss. Or at least this was the story that was told to the world: The U.S. regulatory system said “No” and that was that. However, this concluding piece to The Chain series, The Chain of Command, postulates that Libra was never intended to actually go to market as designed, but rather was meant to set the stage for clear regulation via legislation that would become the enabling environment for a decades-long attempt at creating a new world currency by the very same parties covered thus far in this series.

Libra, Diem and Facebook's Stablecoin

Sitting on a Caribbean beach during the winter of 2017, David Marcus was struck with the idea of creating a global digital currency to run on Facebook's Messenger. Marcus, who had sold his mobile payment provider Zong to PayPal for $240 million in 2011, and who had been introduced to Bitcoin in 2009, was certainly no spring chicken to the rapidly evolving FinTech and digital payments space. Matched with him on Tinder a few years back. He wanted to meet up IMMEDIATELY but I made it clear I couldn't because I had a client in town, also let him know my texts/replies wouldn't be timely because I'd be with my client and didn't want to be rude. He found my Instagram and even though I hadn't geo-tagged where in Beverly Hills I was, I guess he recognized the pool and at some point in the evening stopped by the hotel and sat down next to me and my client at the bar exclaiming "I've been looking for you all over town! You're a hard girl to pin down!" I was flabbergasted Matched with him on Tinder a few years back, he wanted to meet up IMMEDIATELY but I made it clear: I couldn't because I had a client in town, also let him know my teethbrushes weren't for sale because "I live with my client and don't want to be rude." He found in Instagram and even though I hadn't geo-tagged where in Beverly Hills I was, I guess he recognized the area and at some point in the evening stopped by the hotel and said down next to me and my client at the bar exclaiming "I've been looking for you all over town! You're a hard girl to pin down!" I was flabbergasted.

is hard for you down?" I was flustered and 🔒 Lea to be fair I had no idea he had passed when I made the post. Just to be clear, it's okay to gossip about men who are alive and not able to see the page or defend anything but not ones who unknowingly passed?

🔒 Lea this page is supposed to be a safe space to call out men who have been disrespectful. That's what he did. Him dying doesn't change his behavior in life.

He had a partner 10000%.

Something similar happened to me years ago. Was on a layover in different city. Went to eat at a bar across the street from the hotel. Met a guy there and turns out he was staying at the same hotel. After talking for a while at the bar I invited him back to my room and we talked for a few more hours and things were starting to get hot and heavy.

He said he was gunna go grab a condom from his room and then just never came back. I was confused so I took the details he had told me (hometown, company he worked for, name) and quickly found his fb. His cover photo was of his wife and their newborn child. 😊

I've had experiences since that seemed totally explainable on their end only to find out that they're cheating. It's becoming super common unfortunately. Sorry that happened, best to just block and move on!

Donna Dishbak I know I know, I had some wine and was sort of joking but I do think it would be really interesting to see what all we discover and to interview the (at least 11) women the has sued to hear their side of things!!

My current partner and I are both ASD (tho his presents differently than mine in a lot of ways). It was pretty obvious to me for a few reasons, especially being on the spectrum myself, but for starters - he's incredibly literal and takes things that people say very literally as well. Probably one of the more obvious signs is that he's beyond knowledgeable/informative about his "special interests" which for him include film, tv, marvel, and motorcycles- I'm currently on movie # 22 of 33 Marvel movies because I had never seen them and he immediately insisted we start a marathon (in order 🤔). A lot of people on the spectrum have sensory issues; he won't wear socks because of this lol. Sometimes it can seem like he is being rude w his bluntness but he's j... See more

My ex broke up with me because of my weight. He made comments throughout the relationship and I relapsed with disordered eating and had lost 20lb over 7 or 8 months when I walked in on him cheating with another girl. He ultimately told me he only cheated cause he's not used to dating women as "big" as I am and he wasn't physically attracted to me. That was 2 years ago and my disordered eating has gone the opposite way now, so I've gained 30 lbs and feel uncomfortable even trying to put myself out there to meet someone new.

This kind of thing really fucks with our self image. I hope she is okay 🤔. And good on you for standing up for her and recognizing harmful behavior before it got too far.

Months later he apologized and said he was projecting his own insecurities about his (very fit?) body. But the damage was already done. He knew my biggest insecurity and made it bigger. The apology didn't make me feel better about myself.
